MUSEUM

- Continued from page 1 -
 accomplishments among these noteworthy is astounding.

Familiar names grace the list of executive board members; Kendel S. Ehrlich, Frances Hughes Glendening and Catherine Curran O'Malley. But that is a small part of herstory. A very important goal of the Center is to honor unsung heroines of Maryland, "our diverse mothers, grandmothers, aunts, wives, partners, cousins, sisters, daughters, colleagues and friends. Through their tireless efforts both paid and volunteer, they have been the cornerstones that have inspired and sustained."... us. A permanent record will be made of names and the successes of unsung heroines submitted to the Center.

A contest is afoot to identify the mystery object pictured on the front page by July 29. Submissions may be sent to www.MDWomensHeritageCenter.org or Maryland Women's Heritage Center, P.O. Box 719, Brooklandville, MD 21022-0719. Winners who mention they saw the image in the East County Times will be listed in a future issue of the newspaper. Winners might receive small prizes from the Center.

For more information about the museum, go to the website or phone Jill Moss Greenberg, 410-767-0675. The Center is generally open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Space is offered for a small fee for group functions. Men and boys are welcome as well.

By the way, Wilmot was named "Woman Entrepreneur of the Year" in 2005 by the Baltimore Business Journal. She is listed as one of Baltimore's 100 outstanding women in The Daily Record for 2010. One of her sisters owns a computer store, Anything Computers, located next to Wilmot Modular Structures.
